

2nd National Congress on English Spoken Language Breaking the Paradigms on the XXI Century.

1. How long have you been learning English?

I have been learning English for a little more than 3 years, I started in the IIPA 2020 period in the "English Course B1.2" with teacher Francy Elena Martínez. After motivating me to enter the school of English in the edtech digital platzi, to the vovler of pandemic, I started with some teachers of the sectional ubate to record during a speech of 5 minutes, where the proper presentation and tastes were the most fun and exciting subjects to relieve, and now continue learning English, sharing thematics related to #WomenInTech in social networks

2. What is the best way to learn a foreign language? What were the stages you had to learn it?

I consider that the best way to learn a foreign language is the practice of reading and listening, in turn I have learned a new way, the interracion with native speakers of the language in social networks

3. What are some benefits of learning a foreign language as English?

The main benefit of learning a foreign language is that you know a new way of learning, one where you begin to expand your current context with a global context, where new techniques such as for example to practice reading constantly I have configured my phone and computer in English, with the aim of associating day by day with words of the foreign language.

This has had great benefits to my life, since I now interpret more quickly those words that were impossible to understand quickly, or to effectively grasp their meaning

4. How can the Internet be a helpful tool when learning a foreign language?

As a student of systems engineering I consider the internet to be the key to knowledge and learning new tools, because it allows us to leave a traditional learning space, and knowing a global digital age with people who meet in remote corners

5. What resources do you suggest to those students who are learning English?

As a key resource if you want to learn English, start listening to free speech provided by British Council <https://learnenglish.britishcouncil.org/> recently we saw this tool with teacher Lorena in English classes II and it has been incredible, to be able to practice listening, evaluate reading in turn with the multiple selection of the tests seen, once the listening is finished.

As another key resource to consider is to start writing small fragments in English, an initiative is that when you greet your loved ones by whatsapp or social networks that you use as Instagram, tiktok or twitter, the beginning of the conversation will be with good morning, or if you say goodbye to them be with see you! It is easier to remember these kinds of words, and by making them constantly they can be retained in your memory, perfecting your grammatical writing of the foreign language

6. What were some obstacles you had when you were learning English and how you faced them?

A hindrance that I faced when learning English was initially speaking, on one occasion I had the possibility of attending the "Fintech Women Col" in the month of March 2022, where the vast majority of the attendees were American and obviously the language of networking within the event was 100% in English, when practicing speaking at home, from my computer I felt a little more calm and safe, but being in front of a native person of the language, the nerves took hold of me making the level of speaking that I believed to have was not so

7. What is the most difficult communicative skill to develop and how can the students strengthen it?

The most difficult communicative ability to develop is to develop is the oratory and the reading of word identification since there are several words that look alike.

8. Do you think learning a foreign language allows you to learn about other cultures? Why?

If, consider that a foreign language allows to know other cultures, the relationship of cultural, gastronomic and social diversity can be seen by interacting with people from abroad, speaking with them, not only can you learn about their country of origin where it makes way for the cultural, but about people, who like them, who attract them more than their origins and because they form the basis of their personality and tastes.

When you meet a person, you not only allow to know those details but also those of his past, and how this way to the person who is today

9. What do you think is the best age for learning a language and why?

I do not consider that there is a specific age to learn a language, because we all fear the possibility of learning a language as long as there is the desire, that motivation that allows you to expand your knowledge, and be willing to adapt to new cultures.

10. How can the students stimulate the language learning?

Students can stimulate the learning of the language by making it part of our routine, by integrating it into our tastes when listening to music, or by daring to read that favorite book that we like so much, but in a foreign language, such as going from reading "Harry potter y la Piedra Filosofal" to read harry potter and the philosopher's stone.

When something is already part of our routine, it is difficult to be abandoned, because already this day to day in our context and movement to adaptive change.
